THE CENSUS OF THE CITY—The Probable Population.—The census of the city, under the direction of Mr. Williams, is now nearly completed, and although we can not yet give the exact population, we are satisfied that it will not vary much from 185,000. THE WATER QUESTION-Action of the Trustees of the Water-works.—The analysis of the waters of the Miamis and Mad River of the waters of the Miamis and Mad River baving established the fact that the Ohio must be relied upon for supplying this city, George Shields, Esq., Engineer of the Waterworks, has prepared a plan for a new force-pump, which will supply 1,090,000 of gallons per hour, or about double that furnished by the present machinery, which, when run to the extent of its capacity, will pump but 1,611,607 cubic feet, or about 12,000,000 of gallons in twenty-four hours. The entire cost of the machinery, &c., is estimated at $81,779.55, much less than the public has had reason to expect. This sum also includes the cost of a fifty-inch inlet pipe, but not the expense of laying it down.

The plan was thoroughly canvassed by the Board of Trustees at their last session, and adopted; and it is expected that the new machinery will be put in operation at an early day.

Anniversant of Swiss Independence.— The members of the "Greutley Verein," a Society of Swiss, celebrated the five hundred and fifty-third anniversary of the formation of the League of Rutli, at Turner Hall, last night. As the independence and freedom of Switzerland resulted from it, it has been justly regarded as the most important event in the history of that country, as the De-claration of American Independence is con-sidered in ours. sidered in ours.

The Helvetic Confederacy, protected by its mountains, had long held a position among independent nations; but by a series of events, which we can not here enumerate, it gradually fell under the control of Austria, until the year 1264, when Rodolph, of Hapsburg, made himself master of all Switzerland. He was, however, humane, generland. erous and politic, and during his reign the Swiss appeared contented and happy, and agriculture, manufactures and the mechanic arts flourished.

His son Albert, who ascended the Austrian His son Albert, who ascended the Austrian throne in 1298, however, reversed the liberal policy of his father, and by a series of unjust and tyrannical acts so exasperated the Swiss, that a revolution became inevitable; and, as a preparatory step, thirty-three menled on by Furst, of Url, Stauffacher, of Schweitz, and Melethal, of Underwalden, entered into a solemn league (November, 1307), by which they agreed to stand by each other in the impending struggle for independence. The first rising of the populace took place in the Waldstadt towns on the lat of January following, and resulted in the complete emancipation of Switzerland. It was in this struggle that Tell and Winkelried rendered themselves immortal by their heroism. themselves immortal by their heroism.

ECCENTRIC MARRIAGES,-During the last week three applications for marriage licenses have been made, which from the contrast they exhibit, serve to illustrate the capacity of the connubial state to shed its blessings upon all classes of society, from the beggar to the millionaire, from the youth to the

to the millionaire, from the youth to the septuagenarian.

The first of these applications came from a stardy Teuton, named Withelm Brockman, twenty-five years of age, who could not afford the luxury of a coat, and who declared to the Clerk that he was without money to pay the usual charges for a license. He was evidently in great tribulation, and declared that he must marry or be deprived of happiness for ever. Observing his auxiety a bysander paid the usual fea, and the necessary papers were granted, much to the satisfaction of our hero, who informed the Clerk that a Justice of the Peace had agreed to marry them for nothing.

The second was that of a man named Joshua Gibson, seventy years of age. He was nearly blind, and unable to walk erect. Having tried every other source of happiness, he nearly blind, and unable to walk erect. Having tried every other source of happiness, he resorted to matrimony, the remedy for every woe, despite the efforts of backelors to disparage the institution. His intended bride was—but we will transcribe an auto-description, which she forwarded to the Clerk of the Probate Court, as a guarantee of her good faith:

"ELLEADSTH TOWN. Ohio.

"ELIZABETH TOWN, Ohio,
"November the 14th, 1860.

I Mary banks are A widow aged Sixty
Seven years this is my signature and Consent."

The venerable couple were wealthy, and we hope they may live long to enjoy that happiness which only attends the matrimohappiness which only attends the matrimo-nial state.

The third and last couple said they were a little past sixteen, but, judging from appear-ances, no one would accuse them of being over fourteen. They were in greater trouble than either of the other parties named. The young man was not old enough to marry, for, by a statutory provision, males are re-quired to be eighteen years old before enter-ing into matrimonial alliance; besides this, his father was absent, and had he been more than eighteen, it would have been necessary than eighteen, it would have been necessar for him to obtain the consent of his parent for him to obtain the consent of his parent. All these things were presented to the youthful aspirant for counubial bliss, but in vain. He would not be denied. A special guardian could be appointed, and if only the clerk would waive the little technicalities of the law requiring him to be eighteen, the whole matter could be disposed of easily. The efficial at first manifested some scruples on the subject, but they were finally removed by the young man, who urged that, in addition to the general merits of his case, there were special reasons why all objections should be laid aside in this instance. The clerk, at length overcome by his importunities, granted his request, and appointed a guardian, who conseated to the marriage of his ward, which was soon after solemnized in due form.

NATIONAL THEATER.—The National was quite well attended last evening, and the performances of the Webb girls were decidedly clever. The fair Ada appeared to good advantage in In and Out of Place, and was much admired. She is a pretty and attractive maiden, and has one of the most kissable months we have seen for a month. It would be a leaver we force to make loss. It would be a luxury, we fancy, to make love to her.

This evening the Webb Sisters present an unique programme, Ada appearing as "Carline" in The Female Brigand, and she and Emma as "Jack Shepard" in different acts of that Newgute-calendar play.

of that Newgate-calendar play.

Pirk's Opera-nouse.—The Opera-house was crowded last evening, on the occasion of Barney Williams's benefit, and the different representations by himself and wife were greeted with shouts of applause and roars of laughter. The programme offered this evening is Ireland as It Is, The Customs of the Country and The Irish Tiger. The theater will be full again to-night, of course, The Williamses always draw largely.

SUPERIOR COURT.

ALLEGED FALSE IMPRISONMENT OF A SHAREA.—John Hobert vs. John Martin, Stephen H. Ball and others. This is an action before Judge Storer and a jury. The plaintiff was a member of the society of Shakers at Whitewater-village, and he alleges that in consequence of an attempt made by him to introduce certain reforms, among which was the institution of marriage, he was subjected to a series of persecutions and entitled to damages therefor. His testimony was principally a repetition of matters deposed upon the occasion of the examination in the Probate Court, which was published at the time. He charges that immorality prevails in the society, and that petty frauds are practiced. The evidence was not closed. Vanner.—In the case of Kilbreath, trustee, es. A. Lewis & Co., heretofore reported, the jury feturned a verdict for plaintiff for $1,176.

SEDAMSVILLE STREET RAILBOAD,—Mr. D. G. Sedam, one of the corporators named in the contract for the construction of a street railroad to Sedamsville, yesterday sent the following communication to the County Commissioners:

NEWPORT NEWS.

The Union Merrino Last Night.—At the appointed hour last night the Court-house was densely packed with the citizens of this city, who congregated there to give expression to their feelings in reference to the continued cries of disunion. Upon motion of Jadge Boyd, Mayor Hawkins was appointed Chairman, and George R. Fearrons Secretary. The Chairman stated that the meeting had been called that the people might express their sentiments in reference to the present state of affairs, and the muchtalked-of secsation of the South. He said that no State, North or South, had the right to secede—that it was rebellion—and the that no State, North or South, had the right to secede—that it was rebellion—and the Northern States that have nullified, or at-tempt sullification of the Fugitive-slave Law, are equally guilty of rebellion as by secession. The Federal Government, he said, had the right to use force in preventing secession, but it should be when every thing else had failed, and then in as mild a form as possible.

He considered Henry Clay orthodox on all questions of secession and dissolution, and like him, when asked when a dissolution should take place, he would say, never! never! never! Col. Jones then moved that a Committee be appointed to draft resolutions expressive of the sentiments of the meeting. The chairman named the following as the Committee: Col. Thos. Jones, Major Ira Root, Alfred Thornton, J. V. Guthrie, H. Helm and W. P. Craig. They immediately refixed.

Calls were made for Major Hallam, who arcse, and said, before taking part in the meeting, he wished to be informed if the Breckinridge and Lincoln men were to be excluded from participating in the meeting. He had seen the names published who had signed the call for the gathering, but could find no Breckinridge or Linzolu names in the list. The Chairman informed him that the meeting had been called irrespective of party, and that all were welcome.

Major H. then lanched forth in quite a spirited speech, in which he declared himself to be as sound a Union man as any present. He did not believe that secession was a good remedy to replect the rights of present. He did not believe that secession was a good remedy to protect the rights of the Southern States, but that the South should defend herself against all aggressions from the North in the Union.

The Major here gave way to the committee with the resolutions. After they were read, Major Hallam moved that they be adopted singly. This caused much confusion, and cries of "No," "They are all right," we're heard in all parts of the house. Major H. said he asked this because he objected in part to some of the resolutions, and did not H. said he asked this because he objected in part to some of the resolutions, and did not think they ought to be adopted in the whole. Here followed a depute upon the right of a State to secede. Major H. asserting the right, and Col. Jones, quoting from John C. Calhoun, denied the right. During the dispute there was considerable confusion, shouting and stamping, cries for "Question," "Go in Jones," finally the chairman obtained order, and the dispute closed. Judge Boyd then offered the following resolution as an amendment:

"Resolved: That while we are devotedly attached to the Union of these States, and are prepared at all times to use all honorable and constitutional means to maintain the same, yet, as citizens of Kentucky, we will never consent to be deprived of our constitutional rights, but will insist upon them at all hazards, and will ever claim for Kentucky perfect conality with her sister. tucky perfect equality with her sister The audience seemed disposed that resolutions of the committee should not be amended, and the above was voted down. Major Root then obtained the floor, and gave vent to his pent-up feelings in a very eloquent and pointed speech, in which he proclaimed himself for the Union, now and forever. He was frequently applauded, and listened to with attention.

Cries for "question" were again raised, and the following resolutions unanimously adopted. There was not a dissenting voice in the whole house; and, upon motion, all e Cincinnati papers were requested to publish them:

CORRECTION.—In our Newport article of Thursday, injustice was done to an estimable lady, Mrs. Davis, by certain reflections upon what was alleged to have been her conduct in respect to a claim made against the city for damages done to her property, by the fire department, while engaged in extinguishing a fire. In the first place, the claim, although made in her name, as we are informed, was made by others without her knowledge. In the second place, it appears to have been legitimate, and probably should have been allowed by the Council and paid. The reflections, therefore, contained in the article were uncalled for, and their appearance is matter for regret. We do not desire,

Washington, November M.—The State Department has received advices from Minister Harris, of the 5th of July. He states that the Japanese steamer Condinuariah had arrived at Jeddo from San Francisco, and on the return voyage was navigated by the Japanese alone. This, he says, is the first instance in which a vessel constructed solely by Asiatics has successfully crossed the great North Pacific Ocean, and strikingly proves the Japanese to be capable of improvement, and that they might soon place themselves at the head of Oriental enterprise, if allowed freely to cultivate the great powers they possess.

The Commander of the steamer, with two Governors of Foreign Affairs, had called on Governors of Foreign Affairs, had called on Mr. Harris, saying they came by the command of the Tycoon, and were directed to express to him His Majesty's sincere thanks for the friendly and cordial manner in which the Commander and officers of his steamer were received by the authorities and people of San Francisco. They were directed to thank him particularly for the complete repair of the steamer at Mare island Navy-yard, and express the deep sense His Hajesty entortained of the kindness and courtesy of Capt. San Francisco, and the kindness shown them by all classes of our people, have pro-duced a lively sensation, especially among the nobles heretofore opposed to the treaty of Jeddo. One of the officials naively remarked to Mr.

Harris: "We did not believe you when you told us of the friendly feelings of your country for us, but we now see that all you have said was true."

Mr. Harris is of the opinion, when the Em-bassadors return to Japan, and relate of their reception by the President, of their large experience in the States, and when they state what they have seen of the greatness and prosperity of our country, it will have an important effect, and lead to a better state of feeling on their part lowerd us, and toan important effect, and lead to a better state
